

Leadership lessons from management guru

High powered race cars and high performance seminars

Race School Ireland based at Kirkistown Motor Racing Circuit in Co Down not only provides fun-filled and very exciting corporate day packages, but also organises leadership seminars from some of the world's leading management gurus. One of those events is taking place on February 21 next year when best-selling author and leadership thinker, Robin Sharma, will be holding a full day event at the Hilton Hotel in Belfast. Robin Sharma became a household name with the Monk Who Sold His Ferrari series of books which sold widely in more than 40 countries. His latest book The Greatness Guide is a powerful practical handbook aimed at helping readers attain top class performance in both their professional and personal lives. He is considered one of the world's leading experts on organisational leadership and personal success and his clients include many Fortune 500 companies such as BP, FedEx, IBM, KPMG, Microsoft, NASA, Nike and Panasonic.

The event is organised by Stanley and Karen Chambers of Race School Ireland and it is the first seminar held by Robin Sharma in Ireland. As such it presents a unique opportunity for individuals to change the way they think about leadership. Contents include topics such as Being an Extraordinary Communicator; Lessons for Personal Leadership; Becoming an Extraordinary Performer and Achieving Significance as well as Success. Race School Ireland has been in the corporate entertainment business since the late 1970s, attracting thousands of people from all walks of life to the thrills of driving a racing car around a proper circuit.

The organisation will customise a package of activities to suit the individual client or company. Those taking part are given full instructions from highly qualified instructors before being allowed to drive a race-prepared single seater Zip Formula car. The racing is backed up by full catering facilities.
